REJECTED, YET CHOSEN

Have you ever thrown something away, only to discover later that it was exactly what you needed? Suddenly, you are searching the trash, saying, "I know I put it here somewhere!"

Jesus says something far more serious in today's Gospel: "The stone that the builders rejected has become the cornerstone." The builders looked at the stone and decided, "This one doesn't fit. We don't need it." Yet God chose that rejected stone to become the foundation.

Jesus is indeed speaking ultimately about Himself: rejected, crucified, and cast aside, yet raised by the Father and made the cornerstone of our salvation, but there is also a challenge here for us. What if the very thing we are rejecting is something God wants to use? Sometimes we reject people because they are different, difficult, wounded, or have a past. We dismiss someone because of one mistake, one failure, one rumor, or one chapter of their life. Even in families, parishes, and college communities, it is easy to decide who "fits" and who does not. But God sees differently.

The person others have written off may become an instrument of grace. Your own failure, disappointment, or rejection may become the place where God begins rebuilding your life. God has a remarkable habit of building with stones that people throw away. It is in his nature to always make lemonade out of lemons.

And there is an even deeper question: Is Jesus truly the cornerstone of my life? Or have I pushed Him aside whenever His teaching interferes with my plans, relationships, ambitions, or comfort? This week, ask yourself: Whom have I rejected too quickly? What part of my life have I assumed God cannot use? And is Christ really the cornerstone, or simply one stone among many?

Never underestimate what God can build with what the world rejects.

Fr. Val

Hymns for the Weekend 27th Sunday in Ordinary Time

PRO: Christ is Made the Sure Foundation 541
OFF: Jerusalem, My Happy Home 603
COMM: Let All Mortal Flesh Keep Silence 208
REC: Hail Holy Queen 210

To read more about the history and meaning of this hymn, please see below.

Happy month of the Holy Rosary! "Hail Holy Queen" is a musical setting of the prayer said at the conclusion of the rosary. The words were written by the German monk Bl. Hermann of Reichenau, who after writing this prayer was healed from a crippling genetic condition. The tune is also German, written by Melchior Ludwig Herold (1753-1810) in 1808 in his collection of tunes for choir.

DESECHADO, PERO ELEGIDO

Hay ¿Alguna vez has tirado algo a la basura, solo para descubrir más tarde que era exactamente lo que necesitabas? De repente, te pones a buscar en la basura, diciendo: «¡Sé que lo puse aquí en algún lado!»

Jesús dice algo mucho más serio en el Evangelio de hoy: «La piedra que desecharon los constructores se ha convertido en la piedra angular». Los constructores miraron la piedra y decidieron: «Esta no encaja. No la necesitamos». Sin embargo, Dios eligió esa piedra rechazada para que se convirtiera en el fundamento.

En realidad, Jesús se está refiriendo, en última instancia, a sí mismo: rechazado, crucificado y dejado de lado, pero resucitado por el Padre y convertido en la piedra angular de nuestra salvación; sin embargo, aquí también hay un desafío para nosotros. ¿Y si lo que estamos rechazando es precisamente algo que Dios quiere usar? A veces rechazamos a las personas porque son diferentes, difíciles, están heridas o tienen un pasado. Descartamos a alguien por un error, un fracaso, un rumor o un capítulo de su vida. Incluso en las familias, las parroquias y las comunidades universitarias, es fácil decidir quién «encaja» y quién no. Pero Dios lo ve de otra manera.

La persona a quien otros han descartado puede convertirse en un instrumento de gracia. Tu propio fracaso, decepción o rechazo puede convertirse en el lugar donde Dios comience a reconstruir tu vida. Dios tiene la extraordinaria costumbre de construir con piedras que la gente desecha. Está en su naturaleza convertir siempre los limones en limonada.

Y hay una pregunta aún más profunda: ¿Es Jesús verdaderamente la piedra angular de mi vida? ¿O lo he dejado de lado cada vez que su enseñanza interfiere con mis planes, relaciones, ambiciones o comodidad? Esta semana, pregúntate: ¿A quién he rechazado demasiado rápido? ¿Qué parte de mi vida he dado por sentado que Dios no puede usar? ¿Y es Cristo realmente la piedra angular, o simplemente una piedra entre muchas?

Nunca subestimes lo que Dios puede construir con lo que el mundo rechaza.
